

MILE HIGH DISCUSSIONS STAFF APPLICATION FOR THE 2018-19 SCHOOL YEAR

Thank you for your interest in being a part of Mile High Discussions, a cable-access television show sponsored by Denver Public Schools' Gifted-and-Talented Department. Mile High Discussions is dedicated to showcasing the bright minds of the DPS high school community, and their world view, to provide an experiential learning environment that deals with leadership, logistical thinking, and communication, that provides a voice and a creative outlet to our students, allows their thoughts to be broadcast to a prominent audience of viewers, and utilizes the rarely used perspective of young adults in and around controversial topics. We provide our students a unique learning experience which emphasizes the development of skills such as prominent leadership, effective communication, professionalism, personal responsibility, collaboration, financial management, logistical thinking, time management, and community relations through a publicly broadcast television show that sees gifted minds in the district come together to broadcast free-flowing conversations around controversial topics that relate to high school and the world at large. Our staff puts together the topics, set, guest lists, production, marketing, editing of the show, and more. We invite you to fill out the below application to be a staff member. We take these applications very seriously; Mile High Discussions is like a family, so your application will be reviewed thoroughly by adult mentor and leader Brian Weaver, executive producers Emily Harrison and Andrew Moore, and the remainder of the team, at large. Please scan your application and email it to milehighdiscussions@gmail.com. If you can, please attach a resume, so that we can understand your activities, interests, and achievements outside of school.
